OpenText EnCase Wins 10th Straight SC Magazine Award for Best Forensic Solution

February 27, 2020

Announced at RSA, the SC Magazine Awards recognize the best solutions, services and professionals working to protect businesses in ever-changing security landscape

WATERLOO, Ontario, Feb. 27, 2020 /PRNewswire/ -- OpenText™ (NASDAQ: OTEX, TSX: OTEX) announced today that OpenText™ EnCase™ was named Best Computer Forensic Solution by SC Magazine for the 10th consecutive year. EnCase solutions have dominated the forensic category since 2010.

"As technology evolves, so do the challenges of digital forensic investigations," said Muhi Majzoub, Chief Product Officer at OpenText. "Investigators must cover all devices and operating systems, reach all data and work discreetly and globally, while ensuring a fast, efficient, repeatable and forensically sound investigative process. We are proud that SC Magazine has recognized OpenText EnCase as the leading forensic solution for the past decade."

Since 1997, OpenText EnCase forensic solutions have been built with the investigator in mind. To be honored every year for the last decade by the experts at SC Magazine is a wonderful recognition that no other solution offers the same level of forensic capabilities and flexibility. The OpenText strategy will remain focused on what investigators do best: find evidence and close cases. OpenText is committed to supporting investigators who must cover all devices, operating systems, and reach all data.

Built with the digital investigator in mind, OpenText™ EnCase™ forensic solutions are trusted by law enforcement and corporate investigators and have been proven in courts worldwide. EnCase provides investigators the best solution at every stage of an investigation, from evidence gathering to final reporting. No other solutions offer the same level of forensic capabilities and flexibility.
