

Avnet Abacus Named Top Distributor by Molex for Second Consecutive Year

Terms:

Avnet Abacus, one of Europe's leading interconnect, passive, electro-mechanical and power distributors and a regional business unit of Avnet [1], was recently recognized by Molex [2], with awards for excellence in market engagement, year-over-year growth and project conversion rate.

In addition to being named 2017 EMEA Distributor of the Year, Avnet Abacus was also honored for top performance in two regional categories: Northern Europe Distributor of the Year, with credit to the UK team; and France, Benelux and South Africa Distributor of the Year, highlighting the successes of the Benelux team.

"Avnet Abacus continues to deliver top-class sales performance across our technology range – a testament to the excellent leadership and technical know-how of the team, which continues to inspire confidence in our customers," said Paul Keenan, sales director, distribution Europe, Molex. "This is a significant factor in our company's sustained growth in Europe. These awards are thoroughly deserved."
