It is the responsibility of each Reporting Person to advise his or her immediate family members of this Policy and to promptly report to the General Counsel any proposed or actual Related Party Transaction relating to the Reporting Person or an immediate family member of him or her. On an annual basis, each Reporting Person shall confirm in writing to the General Counsel that he or she has disclosed to the General Counsel all actual or future potential Related Party Transactions for the individual or any immediate family member of the individual.

At the time the Company becomes aware of a person being a Related Person by reason of the person beneficially owning 5% or more of a class of the Company's voting securities, the General Counsel shall request that the person comply with this policy in the same manner as directors, nominees, executive officers and other employees that are Related Persons are required to comply.

E. Independence of Non-employee Directors.

¹ The relatives listed are deemed to be "immediate family members" only if they: (1) are currently related to the primary reporting person (e.g., a person who is divorced from a director's daughter would no longer be a son-in-law whose transactions must be reported); and (2) are related by blood or a step relationship to either the primary reporting person or the primary reporting person's spouse (e.g., the sister of a director's spouse is considered a sister-in-law for purposes of this item; the sister's husband, however, is not considered a brother-in-law for purposes of this item).

² If a potential Related Party Transaction involves the General Counsel, then the Chief Financial Officer shall act in the role of General Counsel under this Policy with respect to the Related Party Transaction. If the Chief Financial Officer also is involved in the potential Related Party Transaction, then the Chair shall retain outside counsel to act in the role of General Counsel under this Policy with respect to the Related Party Transaction.

The Company shall not make any contribution, or pledge of contribution, to a charitable or non-profit organization in an amount in excess of $200,000 for any year unless it first determines that such contribution would not adversely affect the determination that any director (or nominee) is an independent director under the applicable rules of The NASDAQ Stock Market. When assessing director independence, consideration shall be taken of other situations in which the director (or nominee) or any of his or her immediate family members and the Company each have a relationship with the same charity.
