Valaris is committed to safeguarding the environment and the communities in which we operate while responsibly managing our company assets and resources.

To accomplish this, we:

- Enforce and verify compliance with applicable regulations and our management system requirements
- Promote environmental awareness as an integral part of our culture and processes
- Set and monitor objectives for improving our energy efficiency and environmental performance
- Identify and assess the environmental aspects and impacts associated with our activities, and implement appropriate safeguards
- Lead by example and provide resources to manage environmental impacts and reduce risk to levels that are As Low As Reasonably Practicable (ALARP)
- Employ competent personnel in their roles who are aware of the environmental aspects of their work and know how to mitigate risk to the environment
- Implement safeguards to prevent pollution events, while ensuring the effectiveness of response plans
- Identify the root causes of environmental incidents and non-conformities, and apply measures to prevent reoccurrence
- Learn by conducting self-verification and performance monitoring activities
- Strive to minimize energy use, emissions and waste generation from our operations, and promote continual improvement in energy efficiency and environmental performance
